

Pop star

Entertainer who panders to adolescent fantasies.

Rich celebrity who promotes egalitarianism.

I represent a lot of people who have no voice at all.

Bono

I think shareholders are the greatest evil of this modern world. Deadlines mean nothing to us. We'll sink our record company if we have to.

Chris Martin, lead singer of Coldplay

While mediocracy frowns on the idea of heroes, the mass must be permitted a certain amount of celebrity worship for therapeutic purposes. There should therefore be high profile spokesmen for mediocratic ideology drawn from outside the government. These should be popular entertainers or sportsmen rather than producers of high culture, as their message is more likely to reach a wide audience.

Mediocracy will grant economic advantages to such persons in exchange for promulgating socially correct values, meaning such things as assertiveness, egalitarianism and cartoonisation.